

4과 한국의 의례

Chapter 4 — Korean ceremonies

This chapter at a glance

어휘	Vocabulary 한국의 의례 — weddings, funerals and the birthdays that get marked
문법	Grammar 동형-더니 / 동형-은 나머지 — I watched it happen, and then · so much so that
활동	Activities 결혼식 절차 말하기, 특별한 날에 대해 쓰기 — walking through a wedding; writing about a day that matters
문화와 정보	Culture & information 성년의 날 — the day Korea marks coming of age

의례 means a formal rite — the fixed things a society does at a birth, a wedding, a death. This is the most practical chapter in the book so far: sooner or later you will be handed an envelope and expected to know what to write on it, where to stand, and what to say. The vocabulary here is what stops that moment being frightening.

The two grammar points are both about consequence. -더니 reports a change you watched happen: he kept at it, and then he was promoted. -은 나머지 gives an emotion so strong it produced a result: so nervous that his mind went blank. Weddings and funerals are full of both.

사진 1

a baby in hanbok at a table of fruit and rice cakes, parents clapping beside him, guests applauding — a first-birthday party

사진 2

a funeral hall: chrysanthemums banked around a framed photograph, three mourners bowing to the floor, family standing to one side in black

The two photographs are the chapter's two poles — a beginning and an end — and both are staged in a rented hall rather than at home. That is worth noticing: in Korea the first birthday and the funeral are held in commercial venues built for the purpose, which is why 결혼식장, 장례식장 and 빈소 are all vocabulary you need.

참석하다 is the verb for attending a formal occasion, and it is not interchangeable with 가다. You go to a shop, but you attend a wedding: 결혼식에 참석하다. The related noun 참석자 means the people present, and you will see it on invitations.

어휘

Vocabulary

한국의 결혼식장에서는 누가 무엇을 해요? 이야기해 보세요.

Who does what at a Korean wedding? Talk about it.

결혼식장 — At the wedding hall

결혼식장

the wedding hall

신부

the bride

사회자

the master of ceremonies

축의금을 내다

to give a congratulatory gift of money

폐백을 하다

to perform the pyebaek bow to the in-laws

신랑

the groom

주례

the officiant

하객

the guests

피로연을 하다

to hold the reception

축의금 is not optional and not a present. Guests hand over an envelope of cash at a desk by the door, their name is written on it, and the amount is recorded — the family will give a comparable sum back when your turn comes. The desk is the first thing you deal with on arriving, before you even see the couple.

주례 and 사회자 are two different people and learners mix them up. The 주례 is usually an older figure — a professor, a former teacher — who gives the address and pronounces the marriage. The 사회자 is a friend of the couple who runs the running order and keeps things moving.

폐백 is the part of a Korean wedding with no Western equivalent: after the main ceremony the couple change into hanbok and bow to the groom's family in a side room, who throw dates and chestnuts into the bride's skirt for children. It is the scene in the third photograph.

한국의 장례식장에서는 누가 무엇을 해요? 이야기해 보세요.

Who does what at a Korean funeral? Talk about it.

장례식장 — At the funeral hall

장례식장

the funeral hall

영정

the framed portrait

조문하다

to pay your respects

상복을 입다

to wear mourning dress

빈소

the mourning room

조문객

the visiting mourners

조의금을 내다

to give condolence money

고인

the deceased

상주

the chief mourner

상을 당하다

to suffer a bereavement

Notice how the wedding and funeral words mirror each other: 축의금 against 조의금, 하객 against 조문객. The pattern is 축 (congratulation) against 조 (condolence), and once you see it the second list costs you half as much to learn.

상을 당하다 — literally "to meet with a bereavement" — uses 당하다, the verb for having something unwanted happen to you. It is the standard way to say someone has lost a family member, and it is what you will hear when a colleague explains an absence.

상주 is the family member who receives the mourners, usually the eldest son, and he stays in the room throughout. When you arrive you bow to the portrait first and to the 상주 second — that order matters, and the listening page walks through it.

문법 1: 동형-더니

Grammar 1 — Verb/Adjective + 더니

과거에 관찰해서 알게 된 사실에 이어진 행동이나 상황을 나타낸다.

Shows an action or situation that followed on from something you observed in the past.

안젤라 이링 씨, 잠시드 씨에게 친구를 소개해 줬어요?
Yiling, did you introduce your friend to Jamshid?

이링 네. 잠시드 씨가 제 친구를 보더니 마음에 든다고 했어요.
Yes. Jamshid took one look at my friend and said he liked her.

예문 — Examples

가 라흐만 씨는 어디에 갔어요?
Where has Rahman gone?

나 잘 모르겠어요. 방금 문자를 확인하더니 밖으로 나갔어요.
I'm not sure. He checked a message just now and went straight out.

슬기는 갑자기 밥을 많이 먹더니 배탈이 났다.

Seulgi suddenly ate a great deal, and then got a stomach ache.

지난주에는 날씨가 무덥더니 이번 주에는 시원해졌다.

Last week the weather was muggy, and this week it has turned cool.

Form

읽다 → 읽더니
was reading, and then

좋다 → 좋더니 was good, and then

들어오다 → 들어오더니 came in, and then

아프다 → 아프더니
was ill, and then

-더- is the marker of something you witnessed yourself, and that is the whole condition on this pattern. You must have seen the first half happen. That is why 저는 밥을 먹더니 배탈이 났어요 is wrong: you cannot observe yourself from outside, so the subject of a 더니 sentence is almost always someone else.

It attaches straight to the stem with no tense marker — 확인하더니, not 확인했더니 — because the pastness is already carried by 더. The tense lives on the second verb, exactly as it did with -느라고 in chapter 1.

Two readings sit side by side here. With 먹더니 배탈이 났다 the first half caused the second. With 무덥더니 시원해졌다 nothing caused anything — it is simply a contrast between then and now. Which one you get depends on the meaning of the two halves, not on the grammar.

연습 1 — 보기와 같이 친구와 이야기해 보세요.

가 애나 씨한테 무슨 좋은 일이 있어요?
Has something good happened to Anna?

나 네. 애나 씨가 2년 동안 장거리 연애를 하더니 드디어 결혼하네요.
Yes. Anna kept up a long-distance relationship for two years, and now she's finally getting married.

보기) 애나: 2년 동안 장거리 연애를 하다 → 드디어 결혼하다

Anna: two years of a long-distance relationship → finally marrying

1) 후엔: 열심히 돈을 모으다 → 좋은 집으로 이사하다

Huen: saving hard → moving to a good place

2) 라민: 열심히 공부하다 → 장학금을 받다

Ramin: studying hard → winning a scholarship

3) 안젤라: 성실하게 근무하다 → 동기들보다 먼저 승진하다

Angela: working conscientiously → promoted ahead of her intake

4) 잠시드: 작년에는 한국어를 잘 못하다 → 올해에는 한국어를 유창하게 하다

Jamshid: poor Korean last year → speaking fluently this year 연습 2 — 우리 반 친구들에게 어떤 변화가 생겼는지 '-더니'를 사용해서 이야기해 보세요.

제이슨 씨는 여행을 많이 다니더니 여행 책을 냈어요.

Jason travelled a great deal, and then brought out a travel book.

단어장 — New words

무덥다

to be muggy

승진하다

to be promoted

동기

someone who joined at the same time

유창하다

to be fluent

문법 2: 동형-은 나머지

Grammar 2 — Verb/Adjective + 은 나머지

앞의 상태나 행동의 결과로 뒤의 내용이 일어났음을 말할 때 사용한다.

Used to say that what follows happened as a result of the state or action before it.

박민수 친구 아버님 장례식장에는 잘 다녀왔어요?

Did the visit to your friend's father's funeral go all right?

라흐만 네. 제 친구는 너무 슬픈 나머지 울음을 멈추지 못했어요.

Yes. My friend was so grief-stricken he couldn't stop crying.

예문 — Examples

가 면접시험은 잘 보고 왔어요?

Did the interview go well?

나 아니요. 너무 긴장한 나머지 아무것도 생각나지 않았어요

No. I was so nervous that nothing came to mind at all.

라민은 너무 지친 나머지 공부를 그만두고 고향에 돌아갈 생각까지 했었다.

Ramin was so worn out he even thought of quitting his studies and going home.

물건을 훔치려던 사람은 갑자기 나타난 경찰을 보고 당황한 나머지 넘어졌다.

The would-be thief saw a policeman appear out of nowhere and was so flustered that he fell over.

Form

-은 나머지

after a stem ending in a consonant

받다 → 받은 나머지 · 귀찮다 → 귀찮은 나머지

-ㄴ 나머지

after a stem ending in a vowel or ㄹ

놀라다 → 놀란 나머지 · ★힘들다 → 힘든 나머지

나머지 on its own means "the remainder, what is left over". So 긴장한 나머지 is literally "the leftover of having been nervous" — the overspill of a feeling that was too big to contain. That image explains why the pattern needs an extreme: it goes with 너무 and 너무나, and a mild feeling will not do.

The result is nearly always something you did not choose and usually something bad: crying, falling over, forgetting everything, giving up. You would not say 너무 기쁜 나머지 열심히 공부했어요, because studying hard is a decision. The one exception in this chapter — 기쁜 나머지 눈물까지 났어요 — still describes something that happened to the speaker.

Note the form on the verb: 긴장한, 지친, 당황한 — the past modifier, even though the sentence is about a state rather than a completed action. Adjectives take the same ending, so 슬픈 나머지 and 귀찮은 나머지 look identical in shape to the verbs.

연습 1 — 그림을 보고 보기와 같이 친구와 이야기해 보세요.

가 요즘 젊은이들이 도전을 안 한대요.

They say young people these days don't take on challenges.

나 네. 실패를 두려워한 나머지 도전을 안 한다고 하네요.

Yes. Apparently they're so afraid of failing that they don't try.

보기) 요즘 젊은이들, 실패를 두려워해 도전을 안 해

Headline: Young people today — so afraid of failure they won't take a chance

1) 영화배우 A씨, 영화 촬영으로 과로해 결국 병원에 입원

Headline: Film star A overworked by a shoot, admitted to hospital

2) 주민들, 태풍 때문에 불안해 밤에 한숨도 못 자

Headline: Residents so uneasy about the typhoon they didn't sleep a wink

3) 고3 학생들, 시험 때문에 스트레스를 받아 우울증 걸려

Headline: Final-year students so stressed by exams they've become depressed 이링 씨와 안젤라 씨가 결혼식에 간 경험을 이야기합니다. 다음 대화처럼 이야기해 보세요.

Yiling and Angela talk about going to a wedding. Practise a conversation like this one.

이링 안젤라 씨, 주말에 뭐 했어요?

Angela, what did you do at the weekend?

안젤라 지난번에 같이 만난 지민 씨 기억나요? 그 친구 결혼식에 다녀왔어요.

Do you remember Jimin, who we met together last time? I went to her wedding.

이링 아, 네. 지민 씨가 오랫동안 연애를 하더니 드디어 결혼했네요. 결혼식은 어땠어요? 저는 한국에서 결혼식에 아직 못 가 봤어요.

Ah, yes. Jimin was seeing him for such a long time, and now she's finally married. How was the wedding? I've still never been to one in Korea.

안젤라 음, 먼저 하객들은 결혼식장에 들어갈 때 축의금을 냈어요. 그리고 신랑, 신부 어머니들이 촛불을 켜면서 결혼식을 시작했어요.

Well, first the guests handed in their gift money as they went into the hall. Then the mothers of the bride and groom lit candles to open the ceremony.

이링 촛불을 켜는 게 신기하네요. 그다음에 신랑, 신부가 입장하고 혼인 서약을 했겠죠?

Lighting candles — how interesting. And after that the couple came in and made their vows, I suppose?

안젤라 네. 그리고 주례사 이후에 신랑이 축가를 불렀고요. 그런데 신랑이 너무 긴장한 나머지 노래 가사를 잊어버렸어요. 하객들은 신랑의 그런 모습에 계속 웃었고요.

Yes. Then after the address the groom sang the celebration song. Only he was so nervous he forgot the words — and the guests kept laughing at the sight of him.

이링 그랬군요. 다음에 지민 씨를 만나면 축하해 줘야겠네요.

I see. I'll have to congratulate Jimin next time I see her.

Swap in these sets

1) 오랫동안 연애를 하다, 드디어 결혼하다 | 신랑이 너무 긴장하다, 노래 가사를 잊어버렸다

seeing each other a long time, finally marrying | the groom so nervous, he forgot the words

2) 올해 안에 결혼하고 싶다고 하다, 결혼하다 | 신랑이 너무 신나다, 노래를 부르면서 춤을 췄다

saying he wanted to marry within the year, marrying | the groom so excited, he sang and danced

Both grammar points carry this conversation, one for each half. 연애를 하더니 드디어 결혼했네요 reports the change Yiling has watched from outside; 너무 긴장한 나머지 노래 가사를 잊어버렸어요 explains the mishap. Notice the 네요 on the first — that ending is for something you have just realised.

The running order in this dialogue is the real one, and it is worth memorising: 축의금 at the door, 촛불 점화 by the two mothers, 입장, 혼인 서약, 주례사, 축가, then 행진. A Korean wedding ceremony runs about twenty minutes, which surprises most people the first time.

연습 2 — 결혼식에 대한 정보 묻기 / 결혼식에 다녀온 경험 말하기

결혼식은 어떻게 진행되나요?

How does the ceremony go?

결혼식의 어떤 부분이 인상적이었어요?

Which part made an impression on you?

화촉 점화 → 신랑, 신부 입장 → 혼인 서약 → 주례사 → 축가 → 신랑, 신부 행진 lighting the candles → the couple enter → the vows → the address → the celebration song → the recessional

신랑과 신부가 부모님께 감사의 편지를 읽는 것, 신랑의 부모님께 폐백을 드리는 것

부고 — The death notice

박진호 씨의 부친 박영석님께서 별세하셨습니다.

Mr Park Jinho's father, Mr Park Yeongseok, has passed away.

상주: 박진호, 박철호, 박윤경

Chief mourners: Park Jinho, Park Cheolho, Park Yungyeong

빈소: 한국병원 장례식장 10호

Mourning room: Hanguk Hospital funeral hall, room 10

발인: 20XX년 XX월 XX일

발인 (the day the coffin leaves for the burial): the date given 삼가 고인의 명복을 빕니다.

I offer my sincere condolences and pray for the repose of the departed.

좋은 곳에서 편히 쉬시길 바랍니다.

May they rest peacefully in a good place.

삼가 고인의 명복을 빕니다 is the one sentence to learn by heart from this chapter. It is what you write in reply to a 부고 message, what you say to the family, and what goes on the ribbon of a funeral wreath. Send it exactly as it is — no additions, no emoji, and never a cheerful sticker.

별세하다 is the respectful verb for dying, used of someone else's family; 돌아가시다 is the everyday honorific equivalent. Plain 죽다 is never used about a person you are being polite about, and using it here would be a serious misstep.

듣기 — 아나이스 씨와 한국인 친구가 이야기합니다

1) 장례식장에 갈 때는 어떤 색의 옷을 입는 게 좋습니까?

What colour should you wear to a funeral hall?

2) 빈소 안에서 하는 행동을 순서에 맞게 써 보세요.

Put what you do inside the mourning room in order.

분향을 하거나 헌화를 한다. → 고인의 사진 앞에서 _____ → 유족들에게 인사를 한다.

burn incense or lay a flower → _____ before the photograph of the deceased → greet the bereaved family

3) 들은 내용과 같으면 ○, 다르면 × 하세요.

Mark ○ if it matches what you heard, × if not.

① 조의금은 유족을 위로하는 의미로 낸다.

Condolence money is given to comfort the family. ○ / ×

② 빈소에서 나올 때 방명록에 이름을 쓴다.

You sign the visitors' book on leaving. ○ / ×

③ 조문 후에는 식사를 하기도 한다.

After paying respects, people sometimes eat. ○ / ×

The blank in question 2 is the bow. At a Korean funeral you bow twice to the portrait, deeply, from the floor — that is the photograph on the warm-up page. Then you turn and exchange a single bow with the 상주. Getting the order right is the practical point of the whole listening.

발음 — 단어 첫음절 이외의 '의' → [의], [이]

조의금	[조의금, 조이금] jo-ui-geum or jo-i-geum
축의금	[추기금, 추기금] chu-gui-geum or chu-gi-geum
예의	[예의, 예이] ye-ui or ye-i

The vowel 의 is only pronounced fully at the start of a word. Anywhere after that, both [의] and [이] are accepted as correct, and in ordinary speech you will hear [이] far more often. So 조의금 as [조이금] is not sloppy — it is the standard allowing you a second pronunciation.

축의금 shows a second change on top of it. The ㄱ of 축 links onto the following syllable, giving [추기금], and then the 의 may reduce as well: [추기금]. Two rules stacking, which is why this word sounds so unlike its spelling.

연습 — 다음을 듣고 따라 읽으세요.

1) 장례식장에 갈 때는 조의금을 준비하세요.

Prepare condolence money when you go to a funeral hall.

2) 친구 결혼식장에서 축의금을 냈어요.

I gave gift money at my friend's wedding.

3) 장례식장에서는 예의를 지켜야 돼요.

You must observe the proprieties at a funeral hall.

The hundredth day and the sixtieth birthday were both once milestones of survival — past the most dangerous months of infancy, and round the full sixty-year cycle of the traditional calendar. Both are still celebrated now that neither is in doubt, which is why 환갑 has largely given way to 칠순 as the bigger event.

Each occasion has two names because one is Sino-Korean and one is native: 회갑연 beside 환갑잔치, 고희연 beside 칠순 잔치. The 잔치 forms are what you say; the 연 forms are what is printed on the banner.

다음은 가족 행사에 대한 글입니다. 잘 읽고 질문에 답해 보세요.

Below is a piece about family occasions. Read it and answer the questions.

가족 행사 — Family occasions

지난달에는 가족 행사가 많았다. 작년에 태어난 조카는 돌을 맞았고 시어머니도 예순한 살이 되어서 우리 가족은 큰 생일잔치를 두 번이나 치렀다.

Last month was full of family occasions. My nephew, born last year, turned one, and my mother-in-law turned sixty-one, so we held two big birthday feasts.

남편은 이 두 생일이 한국에서는 의미 있는 가족 행사 중 하나라고 했다.

My husband said these two birthdays are among the family occasions that carry real meaning in Korea.

돌잔치에서는 오랜만에 친척들을 볼 수 있어서 반가웠다. 그리고 무엇보다도 재미있는 것은 아기의 장래를 추측하는 돌잡이 행사였다.

It was a pleasure to see relatives at the first-birthday party after so long. Best of all was the doljabi, where the baby's future is guessed at.

예를 들어 아기가 실을 잡으면 장수하고, 돈이나 쌀을 잡으면 부자가 되고, 연필을 잡으면 공부를 잘할 거라고 추측한다.

If the baby picks up the thread it means long life, money or rice means wealth, a pencil means they will do well at their studies.

친척들은 조카가 돈이나 연필을 잡기를 바랐다. 그런데 우리 조카는 마이크를 잡아서 모두 웃었다. 조카가 나중에 유명한 가수가 되면 좋겠다.

The relatives were hoping for money or a pencil. But our nephew grabbed the microphone, and everyone laughed. I hope he becomes a famous singer one day.

얼마 있다가 우리 가족은 시어머니의 환갑잔치도 치렀다. 맛있는 음식도 먹고 자녀들, 손주들이 다 같이 부모님께 절을 올렸다.

A little later we held my mother-in-law's sixtieth-birthday feast too. There was good food, and the children and grandchildren all bowed together to their elders.

시어머니께서는 너무나 감격한 나머지 눈물을 흘리시기도 했다.

My mother-in-law was so moved that she shed a few tears.

또 우리는 환갑 여행도 보내 드렸는데 부모님은 여행을 다녀오시더니 너무 좋았다고 하셨다.

We sent them on a sixtieth-birthday trip as well, and when they came back they said how much they had enjoyed it.

시어머니의 모습을 보니 고향에 계신 부모님 생각이 더 났다. 우리 부모님 환갑 때도 찾아뵙고 축하를 해 드려야겠다.

Seeing my mother-in-law made me think all the more of my own parents back home. I must go and celebrate with them when their sixtieth comes.

행사가 많아서 분주했지만 조카에게는 사랑을, 부모님께서는 효도의 마음을 표현할 수 있는 한 달을 보냈다.

It was a busy month with so many occasions, but one in which I could show love to my nephew and filial devotion to my elders.

가족들의 건강과 장수를 기원하는 한국의 풍습이 참 정겹게 느껴진다.

The Korean custom of wishing family health and long life feels genuinely warm to me.

질문 — Questions

1) 조카가 잡은 돌잡이 물건과 그 물건이 가지는 의미를 써 보세요.

Write down what the nephew picked up at the doljabi and what it is taken to mean.

2) 한국인의 특별한 생일에 대한 내용으로 맞지 않는 것은 무엇입니까?

Which statement about special Korean birthdays is NOT correct?

① 돌잡이를 통해서 아기의 미래를 예상한다.

The doljabi is used to predict the baby's future.

② 돌잔치 때는 가족들이 다 함께 여행을 간다.

At a first-birthday party the family all go on a trip together.

③ 환갑잔치로 부모님께 효도의 마음을 표현한다.

The sixtieth-birthday feast expresses filial devotion.

④ 건강하고 오래 살기 바라는 풍습이다.

It is a custom of wishing health and long life.

3) 시어머니 환갑 때 한 일이 아닌 것은 무엇입니까?

Which was NOT done at the mother-in-law's sixtieth?

① 시어머니를 위해 잔치를 열었다.

They held a feast for her.

② 시어머니께 절을 했다.

They bowed to her.

③ 시어머니께 노래를 불러 드렸다.

They sang for her.

④ 시어머니를 위해 여행을 보내 드렸다.

They sent her on a trip.

Question 2 turns on 돌잔치 against 환갑. The trip in the text was the sixtieth-birthday present, not part of the baby's party — the passage keeps the two occasions in separate paragraphs precisely so that you can tell them apart.

Both of this chapter's grammar points appear in the passage doing their proper work: 너무나 감격한 나머지 눈물을 흘리시기도 했다 for the overspill of feeling, and 여행을 다녀오시더니 너무 좋았다고 하셨다 for what the writer observed afterwards. Find them as you read.

효도 is filial devotion — the duty owed to parents — and it has no comfortable English equivalent. It is a live concept in Korea, not an antique one: 효도 여행 (a trip you send your parents on) and 효도 선물 are ordinary things to buy, and the sixtieth-birthday trip in this passage is exactly that.

The three boxes are the shape of the essay: name the day, explain what it commemorates, then describe what happens on it. The third box is the largest on the page, and that is a hint — most of your writing should be the customs themselves, not the definition.

This chapter's vocabulary is built for exactly this task. 기원하다 (to wish for), 축하하다, 절을 올리다, 잔치를 열다, 풍습 and 의미가 있다 will carry most of what you want to say, and they came from the reading pages rather than from a dictionary.

Write in the 습니다 style throughout. And because you are describing a recurring custom rather than one occasion, keep to the plain present — 절을 올립니다, not 올렸습니다 — switching to the past only if you narrate a particular year.

문화와 정보 — 성년의 날

Culture & information — Coming-of-Age Day

예로부터 한국에서는 아이가 성년이 된 것을 기념하여 축하하는 행사를 가졌다.

Korea has long held an occasion to mark and celebrate a child reaching adulthood.

과거에는 '관례, 계례'라는 의식을 행했는데 남자는 15~20세 사이에 상투를 올리고, 여자는 15세가 되면 비녀를 꽂았다.

In the past there were rites called 관례 for boys and 계례 for girls: a boy between fifteen and twenty had his hair bound into a topknot, and a girl of fifteen had an ornamental pin put in her hair.

이 의식을 가지면 성인으로 인정을 받았다.

Once you had been through the rite you were recognised as an adult.

현대 한국에서는 매년 5월 셋째 월요일을 성년의 날로 정하여 만 19세가 되는 젊은이들이 성인이 되었음을 알린다.

Modern Korea sets the third Monday in May as Coming-of-Age Day, announcing that those turning nineteen have become adults.

그렇지만 요즘은 성년의 날이 오면 특별한 행사에 참여하는 사람보다는 친구들끼리 선물을 주고받으며 축하하는 사람들이 더 많다.

These days, though, more people mark it by exchanging presents among friends than by attending any formal event.

만 19세가 되면 성인으로서 권리와 의무, 책임을 갖게 된다.

At nineteen you acquire the rights, duties and responsibilities of an adult.

음주나 흡연이 가능하고 부모의 동의가 없어도 결혼할 수 있다.

You may drink and smoke, and you may marry without your parents' consent.

신용 카드와 휴대 전화도 자신의 이름으로 가질 수 있고 사업자 등록도 할 수 있게 된다.

You can hold a credit card and a phone contract in your own name, and you can register a business.

할 수 있는 것이 많아지면서 법을 지키지 않았을 때의 책임도 커진다.

As the things you may do increase, so does your liability if you break the law.

만 19세 means nineteen by international count, and the 만 matters. Korea traditionally counted a baby as one year old at birth, so the same person could be called twenty in conversation and nineteen by law. Anything legal — drinking, contracts, voting — is stated with 만 to remove the ambiguity.

The customary present is roses, perfume and a kiss, and Korean students will tell you so at once. It is worth knowing simply so that the shop displays in the third week of May make sense.

권리, 의무, 책임 — rights, duties, responsibility — are the three words this passage is really teaching, and they belong to the language of citizenship rather than of parties. You will meet all three again in the 한국사회 이해 course, so they are worth fixing now.

This is a list of things you do rather than things you feel, and most of it is fixed collocation: 축의금을 내다, 상을 당하다, 명복을 빌다, 장수를 기원하다, 자리를 빛내다. Learn each as a whole phrase — swapping in a synonym for the verb is exactly what makes a sentence sound wrong on these occasions.
