안녕하세요? is the everyday polite greeting and works at any hour — morning, afternoon or night. It is literally a question (“are you at peace?”), which is why it is written with a question mark, but you use it as a plain hello.

By the end of the chapter you should be able to say your name, your job and where you are from, and understand the same three facts when someone tells you.

도입

Warm-up

Look at the pictures and talk about them

이 사람들은 무엇을 해요?

What are these people doing?

여러분은 어떻게 인사해요?

How do you greet people?

The original page shows three scenes: a teacher greeting a class, two businessmen shaking hands across a desk, and two students waving to each other outside a school. The point is that Korean has different greetings for different relationships — you will meet them on the culture page.

Answer out loud before you read on, even if you only manage single words. 인사해요 = “(they) greet”. 무엇을 = what (object). 어떻게 = how.

Useful for answering: 인사해요 they are greeting · 악수해요 they are shaking hands · 손을 흔들어요 they are waving.

어휘와 문법 1

Vocabulary & grammar 1

이름이 뭐예요? 이야기해 보세요.

What is your name? Try saying it.

Names in the airport scene

잠시드

Jamshid

이링

Yiling

제이슨

Jason

박슬기

Park Seul-gi

라민

Ramin

라흐만

Rahman

고첸

Gao Chen

후엔

Huyen

안젤라

Angela

김성민

Kim Seong-min

박민수

Park Min-su

아나이스

Anaïs

These twelve people reappear all through the book, so it is worth learning them now. Korean names (김성민, 박민수, 박슬기) put the family name first: 김 and 박 are the surnames.

이름 = name. 이름이 뭐예요? = “What is your name?” The 이 after 이름 marks it as the subject of the sentence. Say it as [이르미] — see the pronunciation page at the end of the chapter.

Foreign names are written in Hangul by sound, so Angela becomes 안젤라 and Jason becomes 제이슨. Practise writing your own name this way.

명이에요/예요

Noun + 이예요/예요 — “it is ...”

사람, 사물 이름을 말할 때 사용해요.

Use it when you say the name of a person or thing.

예문 — Examples

가 제이슨이에요?

Are you Jason?

나 네, 제이슨이에요.

Yes, I am Jason.

가 라흐만이에요?

Are you Rahman?

나 아니요, 잠시드예요.

No, I am Jamshid.

Which ending do I use?

이에요

after a final consonant (받침)

후엔 → 후엔이에요 · 제이슨 → 제이슨이에요

예요

after a vowel

잠시드 → 잠시드예요 · 안젤라 → 안젤라예요

The rule is purely about sound. Look at the last syllable of the word: if it ends in a consonant (a 받침, like the ㄴ in 후엔) use 이예요. If it ends in a vowel (like 라 in 안젤라) use 예요. The 이 exists only to stop two vowels colliding.

There is no separate word for “am/is/are” and no “I” needed. 제이슨이에요 alone means “I am Jason” — or “It is Jason” — because Korean leaves out whatever is obvious from context.

Make it a question by keeping the same words and raising your voice at the end: 제이슨이에요? Nothing else changes. 네 = yes, 아니요 = no.

어휘와 문법 2

Vocabulary & grammar 2

직업이 뭐예요? 어느 나라 사람이에요? 이야기해 보세요.

What is your job? What country are you from? Try saying it.

The classroom — name · job · nationality

이름 / name	직업 / job	국적 / nationality
이링 Yiling	판매원 shop assistant	중국 China
라흐만 Rahman	공장 직원 factory worker	방글라데시 Bangladesh
정아라 Jeong A-ra	선생님 teacher	한국 Korea
라민 Ramin	학생 student	이집트 Egypt
제이슨 Jason	영어 강사 English instructor	미국 USA
안젤라 Angela	회사원 office worker	필리핀 Philippines

The three questions

- 가 이름이 뭐예요?
What is your name?
- 나 안젤라예요.
I am Angela.
- 가 직업이 뭐예요?
What is your job?
- 나 회사원이에요.
I am an office worker.
- 가 어느 나라 사람이에요?
What country are you from?
- 나 필리핀 사람이에요.
I am Filipino.

어느 = which, 나라 = country, 사람 = person. So 어느 나라 사람이에요? is literally “which country person are you?” Answer with the country plus 사람: 필리핀 사람이에요.

직업 is pronounced [지갑], and 직업이 becomes [지거비] — the final ㅁ slides onto the following vowel.

명은/는

Noun + 은/는 — the topic marker

이름이나 직업 등을 소개할 때 사용해요.

Use it when you introduce a name, a job and so on.

예문 — Examples

가 고천 씨는 주부예요?
Ms Gao Chen, are you a homemaker?

나 네, 저는 주부예요.
Yes, I am a homemaker.

김성민은 학생이에요.
Kim Seong-min is a student.

Which marker do I use?

은 after a final consonant (받침)
직업 → 직업은 · 이름 → 이름은

는 after a vowel
저 → 저는 · 안젤라 → 안젤라는

Same sound rule as 이에요/예요: consonant ending takes 은, vowel ending takes 는.

저 is the humble “I”, used with people you are not close to — which is almost everyone you meet in a KIIP classroom. 저는 …이에요 is the safest way to introduce yourself.

씨 after a name is a polite “Mr/Ms”: 고천 씨. Never attach 씨 to your own name, and never use it with a bare family name.

은/는 marks what the sentence is about, so it often lands where English would say “as for …”. 저는 주부예요 = “as for me, I'm a homemaker.”

말하기와 듣기

Speaking & listening

교실에서 후엔 씨와 안젤라 씨가 인사해요. 다음과 같이 이야기해 보세요.

Huyen and Angela greet each other in the classroom. Practise the dialogue below.

후엔 안녕하세요? 저는 후엔이에요.

Hello. I am Huyen.

안젤라 네, 안녕하세요? 저는 안젤라예요.

Hello. I am Angela.

후엔 안젤라 씨는 어느 나라에서 왔어요?

Angela, what country did you come from?

안젤라 필리핀에서 왔어요.

I came from the Philippines.

후엔 안젤라 씨, 만나서 반가워요.

Angela, pleased to meet you.

Swap in these pairs

안젤라 / 필리핀

Angela / Philippines

이링 / 중국

Yiling / China

Listening — 라흐만 씨와 이링 씨가 이야기해요

1) 이링 씨는 중국에서 왔어요? 네 ____ 아니요 ____

1) Did Yiling come from China? yes ____ no ____

2) 라흐만 씨는 어느 나라에서 왔어요? ① 필리핀 ② 방글라데시

2) What country did Rahman come from? ① Philippines ② Bangladesh

...에서 왔어요 = “I came from ...”. 에서 marks the place you started from. It is interchangeable in meaning with 필리핀 사람이에요, but sounds more natural when you are talking about arriving in Korea.

만나서 반가워요 = “pleased to meet you”, literally “having met, I am glad”. A more formal version, 만나서 반갑습니다, appears in the culture section.

제이슨 맥케이 · 미국 뉴욕 · 영어 선생님

안녕하세요?

Hello.

저는 제이슨이에요.

I am Jason.

미국 뉴욕에서 왔어요.

I came from New York, USA.

저는 영어 선생님이에요.

I am an English teacher.

만나서 반가워요.

Pleased to meet you.

Questions

1) 제이슨 씨는 미국에서 왔어요?

1) Did Jason come from the USA? → 네

2) 제이슨 씨는 학생이에요?

2) Is Jason a student? → 아니요, 영어 선생님이에요

3) 제이슨 씨는 한국어 선생님이에요?

3) Is Jason a Korean teacher? → 아니요, 영어 선생님이에요

Now write your own

안녕하세요? 저는 _____이에요/예요. _____에서 왔어요. 저는 _____이에요/예요. 만나서 반가워요.

Hello. I am _____. I came from _____. I am a _____. Pleased to meet you.

Fill 이름 (name), 국적 (nationality) and 직업 (job) first, then drop them into the template. Choose 이예요 or 예요 by checking whether your word ends in a consonant or a vowel.

만날 때 — When you meet

안녕하세요?

Hello

any time of day, polite and safe with anyone

처음 뵙겠습니다

How do you do

formal, only the first time you meet someone

만나서 반갑습니다

Pleased to meet you

formal form of 만나서 반가워요

헤어질 때 — When you part

안녕히 계세요

Goodbye (stay well)

said to the person who is staying

안녕히 가세요

Goodbye (go well)

said to the person who is leaving

안녕

Bye

casual — only with close friends or children

Which goodbye you use depends on who moves. Leaving a shop, you are going, so the shopkeeper says 안녕히 가세요 and you say 안녕히 계세요. Get this backwards and it sounds like you are dismissing them from their own shop.

Koreans bow slightly when greeting. A small nod is enough among equals; the deeper the bow, the more respect it shows. Handshakes happen in business, often with the left hand supporting the right forearm.

발음 · 배운 어휘 확인

Pronunciation · Vocabulary checklist

발음 — Listen and repeat

이름이	[이르미] i-reu-mi
직업이	[지거비] ji-geo-bi
필리핀 사람이예요	[필리핀 사라미예요] pil-li-pin sa-ra-mi-e-yo

This is 연음 (linking). When a syllable ends in a consonant and the next starts with a vowel, the consonant slides over: 이름 + 이 is written 이름이 but said [이르미]. Korean is always written by word, never by sound, so the spelling never changes.

Practise

- 가 이름이 뭐예요?
What is your name?
- 나 저는 고천이에요.
I am Gao Chen.
- 가 직업이 뭐예요?
What is your job?
- 나 회사원이에요.
I am an office worker.
- 가 어느 나라 사람이예요?
What country are you from?
- 나 필리핀 사람이예요.
I am Filipino.
