This is the chapter where Korean acquires a past tense. Until now everything you could say happened in the present: 친구를 만나요, I meet a friend. From here on you can say 친구를 만났어요 — I met one. One syllable, 었, opens up everything that has already happened.

The other grammar point, 도, means "also". It looks small, but it is what lets you say more than one thing about the same weekend — 영화를 봤어요. 친구도 만났어요. Together the two points give you what the chapter actually wants: a short account of your Saturday.

도입

Warm-up

이 사람들은 주말에 뭐 해요?

What do these people do at the weekend?

여러분은 주말에 뭐 해요?

What do you do at the weekend?

The page shows three weekend scenes: a couple taking a selfie under cherry blossom on a mountain path; three friends with beer and snacks at a table by a window; and a family walking in a park while a child rides a bicycle. Those three — the outing, the drink with friends, the walk — are the weekend this chapter is about.

Both questions are still in the present tense, because the past has not been taught yet. Notice the shift on the next spread: the same question becomes 주말에 뭐 했어요? The book is showing you the before and after.

주말 is 주 (week) + 말 (end) — literally "week's end", built the same way as English. Its opposite is 주중, the middle of the week. And 에 attaches to it just as it did to hours and dates: 주말에, at the weekend.

주말 활동 — Weekend activities

집에서 쉬다

to rest at home

축구를 하다

to play football

친구를 만나다

to meet a friend

청소를 하다

to do the cleaning

산에 가다

to go to the mountains, to hike

아르바이트를 하다

to work a part-time job

빨래를 하다

to do the laundry

산책하다

to go for a walk

한국어를 배우다

to learn Korean

아르바이트 comes from the German Arbeit, "work", by way of Japanese, and in Korean it has narrowed to mean specifically a part-time or casual job. It is very often shortened to 알바. A full-time job is 일 or 직장 — never 아르바이트.

산책하다 and 걷다 are not the same. 걷다 is the physical act of walking; 산책하다 is going out for a stroll for pleasure. You 걷다 to the bus stop, but you 산책하다 in the park.

Notice how many of these are noun + 하다: 청소를 하다, 빨래를 하다, 축구를 하다. That structure matters twice over — it is where 안 goes inside (청소 안 해요) from chapter 6, and it is where the past tense becomes 했어요 rather than following the vowel rule.

What do you do at the weekend? Talk about it.

가 주말에 뭐 해요?

What do you do at the weekend?

나 한국어를 배워요.

I learn Korean.

The dictionary forms above all end in 다, but you never say them that way. 배우다 becomes 배워요 in the answer, 만나다 becomes 만나요. Learn each verb in its 다 form, because that is what the past-tense rule on the next page operates on.

동형-었-

Verb/adjective + -었- — the past tense

과거에 일어난 일이나 과거의 상태를 말할 때 사용해요.

Used to talk about something that happened in the past, or a past state.

가 어제 뭐 했어요?
What did you do yesterday?

나 친구를 만났어요.
I met a friend.

예문 — Examples

가 오늘 아침을 먹었어요?
Did you eat breakfast today?

나 아니요, 안 먹었어요.
No, I didn't.

저는 작년에 한국에 왔어요.
I came to Korea last year.

-았- — after the stem vowels ㅏ and ㅑ

만나다 → 만났다	보다 → 봤다
met	saw, watched

-었- — after every other vowel

먹다 → 먹었다	마시다 → 마셨다
ate	drank

-했- — for 하다 verbs

일하다 → 일했다	공부하다 → 공부했다
worked	studied

Look at the last vowel of the stem, not the last letter. If it is ㅏ or ㅑ, use 았; anything else takes 었; and 하다 is irregular enough to be its own rule, always 했. This is exactly the same choice you already make for the present tense — 만나요 / 먹어요 / 해요 — so if you can conjugate the present, you can conjugate the past.

The forms contract, and that is why they look shorter than the rule predicts. 만나 + 았 would be 만나았, but two identical vowels collapse into one: 만났. 보 + 았 becomes 봤. 마시 + 었 becomes 마셨. Nobody says the uncontracted forms — learn the contracted shape as the real word.

The polite ending goes on afterwards, so the full spoken form is 만났어요, 먹었어요, 했어요. The 었 sits between the stem and the ending, never at the very end. And in the formal register from chapter 8 the same slot gives 만났습니다.

Negation is unchanged: 안 goes in front, and only the verb carries the past. 안 먹었어요, not 안았 먹어요. One tense marker per sentence, and it lives on the verb.

연습 1 — 지난 주말에 뭐 했어요? 이야기해 보세요.

가 지난 주말에 뭐 했어요?

What did you do last weekend?

나 시장에 갔어요.

I went to the market.

보기) 시장에 가다 to go to the market → 갔어요

2) 한국어 숙제를 하다

to do Korean homework → 했어요

1) 일하다

to work → 일했어요

3) 식당에서 삼겹살을 먹다

to eat samgyeopsal at a restaurant → 먹었어요

가다 is the one to watch: 가 + 았 contracts to 갔, so it is 갔어요, not 가았어요. The same collapse as 만났어요, and it produces one of the most common words in the language.

지난 means "last, past" and goes in front: 지난 주말, 지난주, 지난달, 지난해. It is the natural partner of this tense, and it is how you signal the past before the verb even arrives.

연습 2 — 여러분은 어제 뭐 했어요? 이야기해 보세요.

어휘와 문법 2

Vocabulary & grammar 2

사람들이 어디에서 뭐 해요? 이야기해 보세요.

Where are the people, and what are they doing? Talk about it.

공원 — at the park

자전거를 타다

to ride a bicycle

공놀이를 하다

to play ball

시장 — at the market

과일을 사다

to buy fruit

신발을 사다

to buy shoes

백화점 — at the department store

쇼핑하다

to shop

저녁을 먹다

to have dinner

카페 — at the café

이야기를 하다

to talk

차를 마시다

to drink tea

집 — at home

식사를 하다

to have a meal

텔레비전을 보다

to watch television

회사 — at the office

일하다

to work

전화를 받다

to answer the phone

The place takes 에서, not 에, because something is happening there rather than someone going there — this is the pair from chapter 4. 공원에서 자전거를 타요. The exception on this page is 산에 가다: going somewhere takes 에.

타다 covers riding and boarding anything you get on or into — 자전거를 타다, 버스를 타다, 비행기를 타다. There is no separate verb for "ride" versus "take" a vehicle.

전화를 받다 is literally "to receive a phone call", and 받다 is the verb for receiving in general. To make a call is 전화를 하다 or 전화를 걸다. Getting these two the wrong way round reverses who rang whom.

백화점 is literally "hundred goods store" — 백 (hundred), 화 (goods), 점 (shop). Korean builds a lot of its vocabulary this way from Chinese characters, and once you spot 점 meaning "shop" you will start seeing it everywhere.

다음 장소에서 뭐 해요? 두 가지 이상 말해 보세요.

What do you do in these places? Say at least two things for each.

1) 카페

café

2) 공원

park

3) 집

home

4) 백화점

department store

이상 means "or more", so 두 가지 이상 is "two or more kinds". It attaches after the amount, the reverse of English word order, and you will meet it constantly on forms and signs — 18세 이상, eighteen and over.

명도

Noun + 도 — "also, too"

어떤 것에 더 추가하여 말할 때 사용해요.

Used when adding something to what has already been said.

가 어제 저녁에 뭐 했어요?
What did you do yesterday evening?

나 한국어 숙제를 했어요. 드라마도 봤어요.
I did my Korean homework. I also watched a drama.

예문 — Examples

가 무슨 운동을 좋아해요?
What sport do you like?

나 저는 수영을 좋아해요. 축구도 좋아해요.
I like swimming. I like football too.

어제 마트에서 포도를 샀어요. 수박도 샀어요.

Yesterday I bought grapes at the supermarket. I bought a watermelon too.

도 — attaches straight to the noun

운동 → 운동도 exercise too

등산 → 등산도 hiking too

요리 → 요리도 cooking too

노래 → 노래도 singing too

The important thing about 도 is what it removes. It replaces 은/는, 이/가 and 을/를 rather than joining them — you say 축구도 좋아해요, never 축구를도 or 축구도를. The particle you would otherwise have used simply disappears.

There is no 받침 rule: 도 is 도 after a vowel and after a consonant alike. Of all the particles you have met, this is the one with no variant form to remember.

도 attaches to whichever word is the new information, and moving it changes the meaning. 저도 김밥을 먹었어요 means I ate gimbap as well as other people did; 저는 김밥도 먹었어요 means I ate gimbap as well as other things. Same sentence, different point.

In a negative sentence 도 comes out as "either": 저도 안 갔어요, I didn't go either. Korean does not switch words the way English switches "too" to "either" — 도 covers both.

연습 1 — 사람들이 아까 뭐 했어요? 이야기해 보세요.

가 아까 뭐 했어요?
What did you do a little while ago?

나 책을 읽었어요. 음악도 들었어요.
I read a book. I listened to music too.

보기) 책을 읽다 · 음악을 듣다
read a book · listen to music

1) 차를 마시다 · 케이크를 먹다
drink tea · eat cake

2) 회사에서 일하다 · 전화를 받다 work at the office · answer the phone

3) 친구를 만나다 · 영화를 보다
meet a friend · watch a film

듣다 → 들었어요 is the ㄷ-irregular from chapter 7 turning up in the past tense. Before a vowel the ㄷ becomes ㄹ, exactly as it did in 들으세요. Once a verb is irregular, it is irregular in every tense.

아까 means "a little while ago" — earlier today, not yesterday. Korean is precise about this: 아까 for a few hours back, 어제 for yesterday, 지난주 for last week. Using 아까 for something last month would sound odd.

연습 2 — 여러분은 지난 주말에 뭐 했어요? 두 가지 이상 이야기해 보세요.

말하기와 듣기

Speaking & listening

잠시드 씨와 라흐만 씨가 이야기해요. 다음과 같이 이야기해 보세요.

Jamshid and Rahman are talking. Practise the conversation below.

잠시드 라흐만 씨, 주말에 뭐 했어요?

Rahman, what did you do at the weekend?

라흐만 주말에 친구 집에 갔어요.

At the weekend I went to a friend's house.

잠시드 거기에서 뭐 했어요?

What did you do there?

라흐만 고향 음식을 만들었어요. 영화도 봤어요.

We made food from home. We watched a film too.

Swap in these pairs

1) 친구 집 | 고향 음식을 만들다, 영화를 보다

a friend's house | make food from home, watch a film

2) 집 근처 식당 | 친구들을 만나다, 한국 음식을 먹다

a restaurant near home | meet friends, eat Korean food

This four-line exchange is the shape of the whole chapter: where you went, then what you did there, with 도 adding the second activity. If you learn one dialogue from chapter 9, learn this one — it is the answer to a question you will be asked every Monday.

친구 집 has no particle between the two nouns. Korean often just stacks nouns to show possession, where English needs "of" or an apostrophe. The fuller form 친구의 집 exists but sounds heavy in speech.

거기에서 is "there, in that place" — 거기 plus the 에서 you use for where an action happens. 여기에서, 거기에서, 저기에서: here, there, over there. In speech they often shorten to 여기서, 거기서.

친구들 has the plural marker 들, which Korean uses only when it matters. 친구를 만났어요 could be one friend or several; 친구들을 만났어요 makes clear it was more than one. Most of the time Korean leaves it off.

연습 2 — 여러분은 지난 주말에 뭐 했어요? 이야기해 보세요.

가 주말에 어디에 갔어요?

Where did you go at the weekend?

가 거기에서 뭐 했어요?

What did you do there?

듣기 — 이링 씨와 후엔 씨가 이야기해요. 잘 듣고 답해 보세요.

1) 주말에 후엔 씨 집에 누가 왔어요?

Who came to Huyen's house at the weekend?

2) 후엔 씨는 무엇을 먹었어요?

What did Huyen eat?

누가 is the question word for "who" as the subject of the sentence — it is 누구 plus 가, worn down into one word. As an object it stays 누구를: 누구를 만났어요? Ask "who came" with 누가, "who did you meet" with 누구를.

Reading & writing

다음 글을 읽고 질문에 답해 보세요.

Read the passage and answer the questions.

저는 지난주 토요일에 친구와 함께 전주에 갔습니다.

Last Saturday I went to Jeonju with a friend.

우리는 점심에 비빔밥을 먹었습니다. 정말 맛있었습니다.

We ate bibimbap for lunch. It was really delicious.

오후에 한옥 마을에 갔습니다. 우리는 한복을 입었습니다.

In the afternoon we went to the hanok village. We wore hanbok.

사진도 많이 찍었습니다.

We took a lot of photos as well.

우리는 아침부터 저녁까지 많이 걸었습니다. 그래서 다리가 아팠습니다.

We walked a lot from morning until evening, so our legs ached.

그렇지만 정말 즐거웠습니다.

But it was really enjoyable.

The whole passage is in the past and in the formal -습니다 register from chapter 8: 갔습니다, 먹었습니다, 걸었습니다. That combination — 았 first, then 습니다 — is the standard shape of written Korean, and reading a page of it is the fastest way to get used to the order.

전주 is a city in the south-west, famous for exactly the two things in this passage: 비빔밥, which is said to have originated there, and a large preserved 한옥 마을 of traditional tile-roofed houses where visitors rent 한복 to wear for the day.

걷다 → 걸었습니다 is another ㄷ-irregular, alongside 들다 → 들었어요. And 아프다 → 아팠습니다 drops its ㅏ before the ending — a different irregularity, and a very common one. Both are worth marking in your notebook now.

다리 means both "leg" and "bridge", and only context separates them. Here 다리가 아팠습니다 is obviously about legs. Note also that Korean says the leg hurt rather than that the person hurt — the body part takes 이/가 and the person drops out.

Questions

1) 이 사람은 토요일 오후에 어디에 갔어요?

Where did this person go on Saturday afternoon? → 한옥 마을에 갔어요

2) 이 사람은 뭐 했어요? 모두 고르세요.

What did this person do? Choose all that apply.

① 등산을 했습니다.

went hiking — , not in the passage

② 사진을 찍었습니다.

took photos — ○

③ 한복을 입었습니다.

wore hanbok — ○

④ 비빔밥을 먹었습니다.

ate bibimbap — ○

3) 맞으면 ○, 틀리면 X 하세요.

Mark ○ if correct, X if wrong.

① 이 사람은 많이 걸었습니다.

This person walked a lot — ○

② 이 사람은 배가 아팠습니다.

This person had a stomach ache — , it was the legs

The last question turns on one syllable: the passage says 다리가 아팠습니다, the question says 배가. 배 is the stomach. Read the body part, not just the verb — this is exactly the kind of detail these exercises are built to catch.

여러분은 지난 주말에 뭐 했어요? 주말에 한 일을 써 보세요.

저는 지난 주말에 ____

Last weekend I ____

Use the passage as a template rather than inventing from nothing: where you went, who with, what you ate, what else you did with 도, and how it felt. 그렇지만 is a useful hinge for that last part — it means "but" and lets you end on a different note, as the passage does.

문화와 정보 — 한국인의 주말 활동

Culture & information — How Koreans spend the weekend

한국 사람들은 주말에 쉬거나 취미를 즐겨요.

At the weekend Koreans rest or enjoy a hobby.

한국 사람들이 주말에 제일 많이 하는 일은 쉬면서 텔레비전을 보는 일이에요.

The thing Koreans do most at the weekend is relax and watch television.

다음으로는 컴퓨터 게임이나 인터넷 검색을 해요.

After that comes playing computer games or browsing the internet.

그리고 영화나 연극을 보는 사람도 많아요.

And plenty of people go to see a film or a play.

어떤 사람들은 친구를 만나서 운동을 해요.

Some people meet friends and do sport.

쉬거나 and 게임이나 both use the "or" ending: -거나 joins verbs, 이나/나 joins nouns. Korean keeps them separate the same way it kept 하고 for nouns only. You are not expected to produce these yet — just recognise them when reading.

제일 means "most" and marks the superlative: 제일 많이, the most. It goes in front of what it intensifies, and it is the everyday word — 가장 is the more formal equivalent you will meet in writing.

The passage quietly reflects a real change. Korea's five-day working week only became universal in the 2000s, and the 52-hour cap from chapter 6 came in 2018. A weekend spent resting at home is, historically speaking, quite a recent thing here.

만나서 is 만나다 plus -아서, "meet and then". It links two actions where the first leads into the second, which is why it is not simply 만나고. You will learn this ending properly later; for now, read it as "meet up and".

Questions

1) 한국 사람들이 주말에 제일 많이 하는 일은 뭐예요?

What do Koreans do most at the weekend? → 쉬면서 텔레비전을 봐요

2) 한국 사람들은 주말에 누구와 운동을 해요?

Who do Koreans do sport with at the weekend? → 친구와 해요

3) 여러분은 주말에 뭐 해요?

What do you do at the weekend?

누구와 is "with whom" — 와/과 here means "with", not "and". Same particle, second job: 친구와 갔어요 is "I went with a friend". In speech you will more often hear 친구하고 or 친구랑.

발음 1 — 다음을 듣고 따라 읽으세요.

만났어요	[만나쎌요] man-na-sseo-yo
재미있었어요	[재미이쎌쎌요] jae-mi-i-sseo-sseo-yo
샀어요	[사쎌요] sa-sseo-yo

All three are the same thing: the ㅅ of the past-tense 았/었 slides onto the following 어 and is pronounced as a single tense [ㅅ]. So 만났어요 comes out [만나쎌요] — the ㅅ loses its own final sound and hands it forward. Every past-tense verb in the language does this.

재미있었어요 is the hardest of the three because it has two 았/었 in a row: 재미있 + 었 + 어요 → [재미이쎌쎌요]. Say it slowly as four beats — 재미 · 이 · 쎌 · 쎌요 — and it stops being a tongue-twister.

발음 2 — 다음을 듣고 연습해 보세요.

가	주말에 뭐 했어요? What did you do at the weekend?
나	고향 친구를 만났어요. I met a friend from home.
가	어제 뭐 했어요? What did you do yesterday?
나	드라마를 봤어요. 재미있었어요. I watched a drama. It was fun.
가	시장에서 뭘 샀어요? What did you buy at the market?
나	포도를 샀어요. 수박도 샀어요. I bought grapes. I bought a watermelon too.

재미있었어요 is the natural way to say something was good — a film, an evening, a class. Its opposite is 재미없었어요. Neither is about humour exactly; 재미 is closer to "interest" or "fun".
